There are many ways water damage can occur in a Property: broken pipes, leaky roofs and foundations, burst water heaters, mother nature, etc. While it is not always possible to prevent the damage from occurring, it is necessary to quickly correct the source of water intrusion and dry the affected area quickly and completely.

Once materials are water-laden, mold can quickly populate and begin to form colonies. Some sources of water intrusion related to sewer back-ups or other black-water issues can also be sources of bacteria.

With years of experience, Karl Environmental Group professional staff can help to assess the water damage situation in your property, check for mold and/or bacterial growth, determine the extent of water damage, and make recommendations on how to proceed.

Karl Environmental Group follows best practices for all environmental assessments and sampling and will provide you with the necessary information to take the next step in correcting water damage in your property.
